Awareness

*the abstract principle
of understanding.*

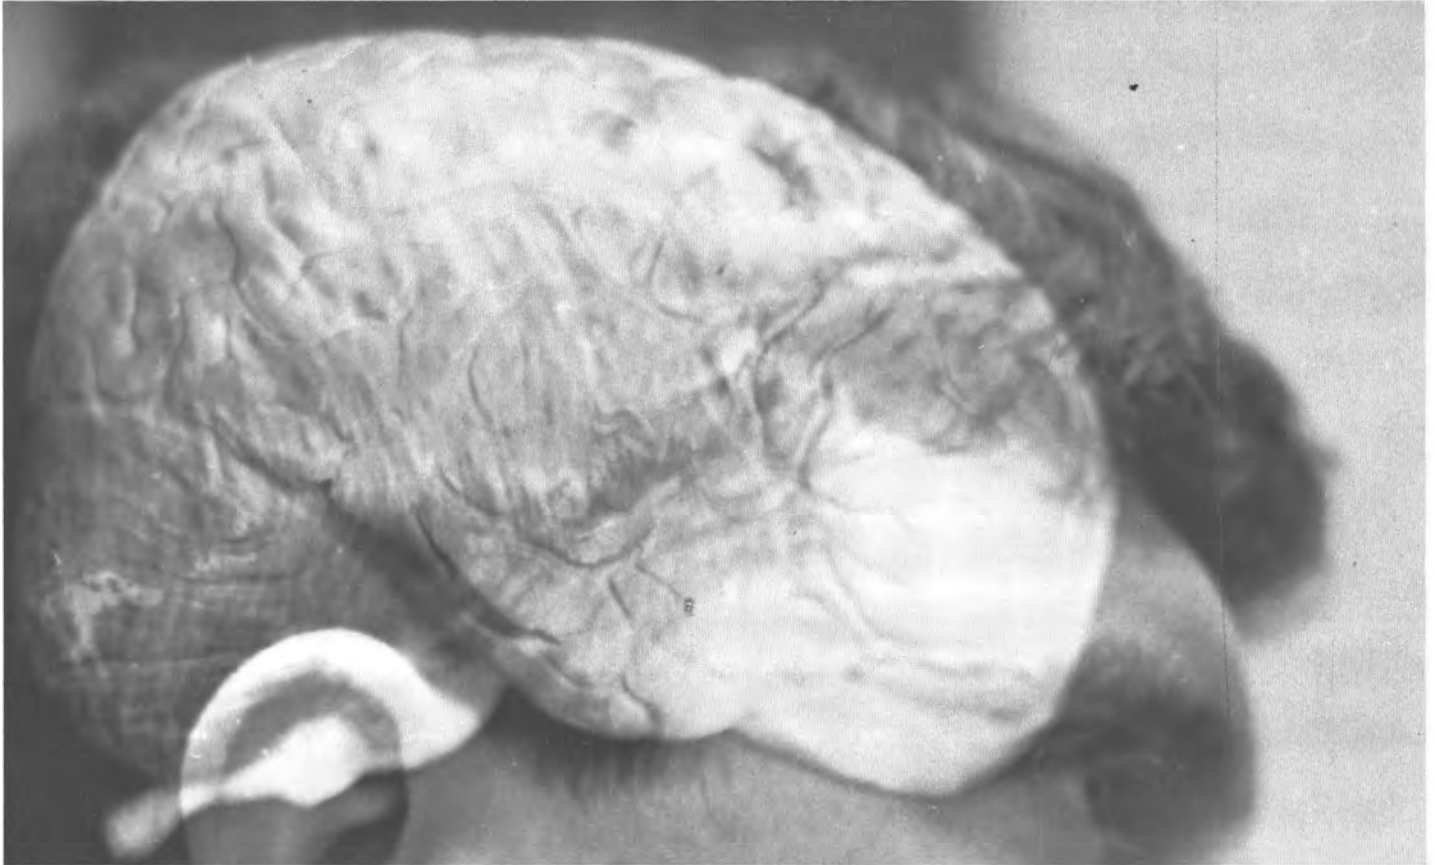

Man receives a stimulus
from his environment . . .

Through an intricate system of impulses, nerves, and special receptors, the centers of perception of the brain receive this stimulus, channel it through the interpretive mechanisms of the mind resulting finally in ...

*A perception of color,
line,
meaning;
Personal,
dependent only on the observer.*

Each person through his own experiences, observations, can become more aware; yet to attempt this an individual must become involved through voicing opinions,

displaying mutual feelings,

talking with friends,

exchanging ideas,

releasing inner tensions . . .

Each person through the pursuit of knowledge responds to his environment.

Whether being instructed in the technological features of data processing . . .

or receiving foreign sounds through tapes . . .

. . . an individual is instructed.

The learning begins . . .

...when a student

through his own initiative receives more knowledge.

Thus a simple display of myriad chemicals becomes a new world of discovery.

Through the discoveries made inside a school, or knowledge obtained in a book, an individual must make the all-important step from the world of ideas to that of reality . . .

where his perceptions can be experienced in life . . .

...in learning how to appreciate all the images perceived daily yet never thought about.

Thus he changes existence to being.

*"In every object
there is inexhaustable meaning;
the eye sees in it what the eye brings means of seeing."*

Carlyle.

Dedication

Mr. Donald Kirchhoff

Mr. Donald Kirchhoff is one of East High's greatest assets, as a teacher, as an administrator, and simply as a person.

In the classroom, few can rival his teaching ability. He possesses an outstanding sense of history which he effectively imparts to his students, thereby increasing their understanding of man's past and present. His main goal as a teacher is that his students should comprehend the complexity and many-sidedness of human affairs and not seek simple answers to the problems of mankind.

Serving as chairman of the Social Studies Department in addition to shouldering the burden of teaching three periods a day, Mr. Kirchhoff is a conscientious and imaginative administrator, often keeping late hours in his office when school is over for the day. In recent years he has worked to introduce a revolutionary social studies curriculum based upon the teaching of conceptual history. Regardless of how busy he is, his office is always open to teachers and students seeking advice, academic help, or ditto-masters.

However, excellence in teaching and diligence in administration do not properly characterize Mr. Kirchhoff. To these traits must be added the dynamism and color of his personality. He is famous for his lucid parables, allegories and World

Speaking to an assembly...

Lecturing to a class...

Mr. Kirchhoff

War II tales which he weaves so effectively into his lectures. His stock market maneuvers are "delightfully" notorious. A superb athlete in his college and high school days, Mr. Kirchhoff shows that he is young at heart by frequently engaging in a game of tennis, baseball, or boxing when he finds the time after school hours.

He is one of the few faculty members who genuinely shows an interest in student affairs, regularly attending basketball games, track meets, and other school events. In addition, such organizations as the Coin Club and the History Forum are indebted to Mr. Kirchhoff for his aid and wise counsel. He is a very vital part of the East High community.

We of the 1967 Orient staff dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Kirchhoff simply because as an all-around great guy he deserves our gratitude and recognition.

ADMINISTRATION

THE administration of East High School encompasses a diverse group of dedicated people working to meet the many demands of a large student body seeking knowledge and responsibility. There are those individuals who guide students, offering them help in choosing interesting courses or in planning a future career. There are teachers who enable students to recognize their potential and, in so doing, inspire them to attain their various goals. There are others who offer encouragement and friendship when problems seem too immense for students to solve alone. There are those who make the hours at East High pass comfortably by diligently performing their daily tasks. Among this list of administrators are those who also devote their own time to many extra-curricular events and to new and interesting courses.

Education takes on a broader meaning when the administration and faculty attempt to understand their students. It becomes a two-way process where both students and administrators learn. A course takes on added meaning when a teacher regards himself not merely as an instructor but as an interested participant in the learning process. Administrators at East High School realize the importance of such a relationship between themselves and students. Under such conditions the barriers of teacher-student communications can be broken down and the concept of learning fully understood and appreciated.

MR. CHARLES N. CLARK
Principal

The success of any establishment relies heavily on its administration. Mr. Charles N. Clark, Principal, has most certainly succeeded in the efficient operation of the school, the co-ordination of its activities, the achievement of favorable relationships between the faculty and the student body, and the admirable representation of East High School in the community. It is a monumental task to help students attain the best possible education; but, in addition, Mr. Clark takes a personal interest in the students. Despite his heavy schedule, Mr. Clark is always eager to listen to the ideas and plans of all individuals and will freely give suggestions if his advice is requested. His interest in the students as individuals has been a source of inspiration; his leadership is greatly appreciated by everyone.

Leading the Masses

Working in close collaboration with Mr. Clark, Vice-Principal Mr. Fred R. Myers is invaluable as an administrator of East High School. His duties are many and varied, including "filling in" on administrative details, scheduling final exams, conducting fire inspections, and registering East High School's young men for the selective service. However, Mr. Myers is more than just a busy administrator. He is also a friend, supporter, and patron of all the students at East High. The Vice-Principal is regarded with high esteem by the student body and the guidance he has offered will long be remembered and appreciated.

DEANS—Miss Carnahan, Mr. Lambert, Mrs. Parthoens, Mr. Youngman.

Often when a student receives a message from his dean, his first thought is that he has done something wrong. However, the job of a dean is not merely to discipline students, but rather to help them. Problems of adjustment to school life, along with personal difficulties, can easily be discussed with a dean and helpful advice can be obtained. Deans are the important link between students and faculty on any issue involving both of these groups. They realize the importance of having students' opinions carried to the administration. This understanding has made their position vital to the successful operation of school policies at East High.

Lending A Helping Hand

Upon entering East High School, students are given assistance in planning their curriculum. This assistance continues throughout the high school years. As the student prepares for graduation, he is given valuable advice and suggestions about colleges and vocations. The counselors arrange schedules to fit the needs of the individual student and complete school record forms for colleges. Though counselors are kept busy at these tasks, they always have time to talk over curriculum problems with students who request help. They also inform students of competitive examinations which may interest them and later notify students of their results in these examinations. By taking a personal interest in the students who are assigned to them, the counselors help plan an education which will best suit the individual.

INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS—Back row: Mr. Read, Mrs. DiClemente, Mrs. Whittaker. Front row: Miss Church, Miss Hasenoechl, Mrs. Toms.

The office staff provides the skills necessary for the efficient management of administrative business. Its function of publishing and circulating information to the faculty and of handling the vast flow of school business makes it an integral part of East High.

OFFICE STAFF—Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Hutchings, Mrs. Salzman, Mrs. Briskin, Mrs. Leo, Mrs. Crothers, Mrs. Houle, Mrs. Wale.

CUSTODIAL STAFF—Back row: Mr. Stanton, Mrs. Schrader, Mr. Gattelaro, Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Kegler, Mrs. Wambech, Mrs. Herold. Front row: Mrs. Reed, Mr. Sessler, Mr. Penfound, Mr. Pitts, Mrs. Versprille, Mr. Irwin. Absent: Mr. Bishop.

Maintenance of a large school like East High is not an easy task. The custodial staff, however, through its daily work, efficiently preserves East High's beauty so that students can take pride in their school.

Learning Through Communication

"You're right, John. That is a mini-skirt!"

"I don't care if its approved by the SGA Congress or not. Run down to the store and buy me some m&m's."

ENGLISH—Back row: Mrs. Gaissert, Mr. Giallombardo, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Stephany, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Riker, Mr. Toms, Miss Caton, Mr. Barnum, Miss Curran, Mr. Loiacono, Mrs. Quinting, Mrs. Pitrella. Front row: Miss Dolce, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Curran, Mr. MacKay, Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. DeMay, Mr. Dolan, Mrs. Soffer.

With the help of English teachers, students achieve mastery of the English language by learning the many intricacies of its structure. These instructors further enrich the lives of their students as they learn of the experiences and ideas of others through careful studies of current and classical books.

Knowledge of our own and foreign cultures is necessary to understand the relationship between all the world's peoples. The members of the social studies faculty promote interests in international cooperation through the studies of history, government, and social sciences.

SOCIAL STUDIES—Back row: Mr. Hunter, Mr. Pierce, Mr. Read, Mr. Baldino, Mr. Kesel, Mr. Sternbach, Mr. Muratore, Mr. Palmer, Mr. Tomlinson, Mr. Barasch. Front row: Mr. Powers, Mrs. Brown, Miss Lesko, Mrs. Wayne, Mr. Kirchhoff, Mrs. Terrell, Miss Abramow, Mrs. Riker, Mr. Simpson.

"Vive la France!"

The foreign language teachers provide instruction for mastering Latin, French, German, Spanish, Italian, and Russian dialects. In addition, they also acquaint students with the cultural backgrounds of the foreign country, which is important to a better understanding of the people themselves.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE—Back row: Mr. Palleschi, Miss Izak, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Hunter. Front row: Mrs. Harris, Mr. Aguglia, Mr. Varrenti, Mrs. Crane, Mr. Sutton. Absent: Miss Rudovskis.

SCIENCE—Back row: Mr. Beecher, Mr. Falkowsky, Mr. Hall, Mr. Moore, Mr. Walton, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Smout, Mr. Kramer. Front row: Mrs. Hare, Mr. Gill, Mr. Goodwin, Mrs. Bradley, Mr. Fisher, Miss Ryer.

The fascinating and diversified realm of science is of great interest to many students. At East High School, a large staff of competent science teachers encourage students to be curious, to observe, and to seek information. A solid scientific foundation can be built for those who are attracted to this field.

Formulas, graphs, functions, and equations: things that mystify the student beginning his curriculum in math are soon brought into his grasp by capable instruction from mathematics teachers. These instructors, qualified through years of training, succeed in making the mathematics courses some of the most challenging in the school curriculum.

Making Technology Work Today

BUSINESS—Back row: Mr. Carlsen, Mr. Spafford, Mr. DePierro, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Abbott, Mr. Benzoni, Mr. Miller. Front row: Mr. La Selva, Mrs. Carpenter, Mr. Cantrell, Miss Pline, Mr. Schutt. Absent: Mrs. Foley, Mrs. Spafford.

The business faculty is a dedicated group of instructors who work to supply the students with business skills applicable after graduation. With courses such as data processing, students become well-prepared for the technological operations they will meet in the future.

"Gol-lee!"

Mr. Baldwin poses for the next issue of True Romance.

Encouraging

HOME ECONOMICS—Miss Davis, Mrs. Tierney, Miss Nixon, Miss Fields. Absent: Mrs. Wagman.

The staff of teachers connected with the school work and occupational education programs is a dedicated group of instructors who with patience and understanding guide their students in finding an occupation suited to their skills, one which will do them service in later years.

Knowledge of cooking and ways of economizing are essential to every successful homemaker. The Home Economics faculty not only works toward this end, but also makes the students more efficient and willing to learn.

SPECIAL EDUCATION—Back row: Miss Waterman, Mr. Wolf, Mrs. Eddy, Mr. Parrinello, Mrs. Sims, Mrs. Beil. Front row: Miss Battaglia, Mrs. Wixson, Mr. Giagios, Miss Poletto, Mr. Constantine.

The Industrial Arts department provides practical training for the future as well as an outlet for creativity. With woodworking, electronics, printing and mechanical training, instructors prepare the students for jobs of the future.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS—Back row: Mr. Frosino, Mr. Lamberson, Mr. McRae, Mr. Crane. Front row: Mr. Evans, Mr. Granger, Mr. MacCracken.

Special Talents

The art department, in offering such courses as sculpturing and painting, strives to find hidden artistic talents among its students. These talents are then supplemented with basic knowledge of art by the faculty and further encouraged by the many productions regularly displayed at East High.

ART—Mr. Melka, Mr. Hughes, Mrs. Linden, Mr. Barry.

MUSIC—Mr. Bilhorn, Miss Clay, Mr. Starke, Mrs. Lind, Mrs. Hemmings.

The music teachers help to develop and present to the student body musical talent represented by students. The many excellent performances by both instrumental and vocal groups illustrate the great amount of time and effort these teachers contribute to their students.

CAFETERIA STAFF—Back row: Mrs. Schoonhagen, Manager; Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Dreas, Mrs. Osband, Mrs. Linder, Mrs. Holden, Mrs. Linder, Mrs. Huussen, Mrs. Schultz. Middle row: Mrs. Tellier, Mrs. Hilbert, Mrs. Moffitt, Mrs. Muoio, Mrs. Via, Mrs. Mellov, Mrs. Bellucci, Mrs. Colaiace, Mrs. Zazzaro. First row: Mrs. DeRue, Mrs. Nordseth, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Muller, Mrs. Parks, Mr. Peet. Absent: Mrs. Crellin.

The cafeteria staff carries out a function most necessary to the school community: the artistic preparation and efficient distribution of nourishing and revitalizing food to the students and faculty. Though the student body might not take for granted this service, to realize, nevertheless, its importance as is seen by the number of students present in the cafeteria lines at lunchtime.

SPECIAL SERVICES—Mrs. Copeland, Mrs. Prickett, Mrs. Ainsworth, Mr. Drake, Miss Pettigrass.

Our speech therapist, dental hygienist, psychologist, and nurse offer preventative and corrective measures which maintain the well-being of the student body. By a constant, watchful vigil, they strive to insure that each student receives his right to a sound mental and physical life.

The job of keeping about three thousand students physically fit is not an easy one, but the rewards are gratifying and self-satisfying. The physical education teachers are training tomorrow's leaders; the results are apparent even today as we note the achievements of East High School's outstanding athletes.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION—
Back row: Mrs. Caverly, Mrs. Kalmn, Mrs. Meranda. Front row: Mrs. Donohoe, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. Schumaker.

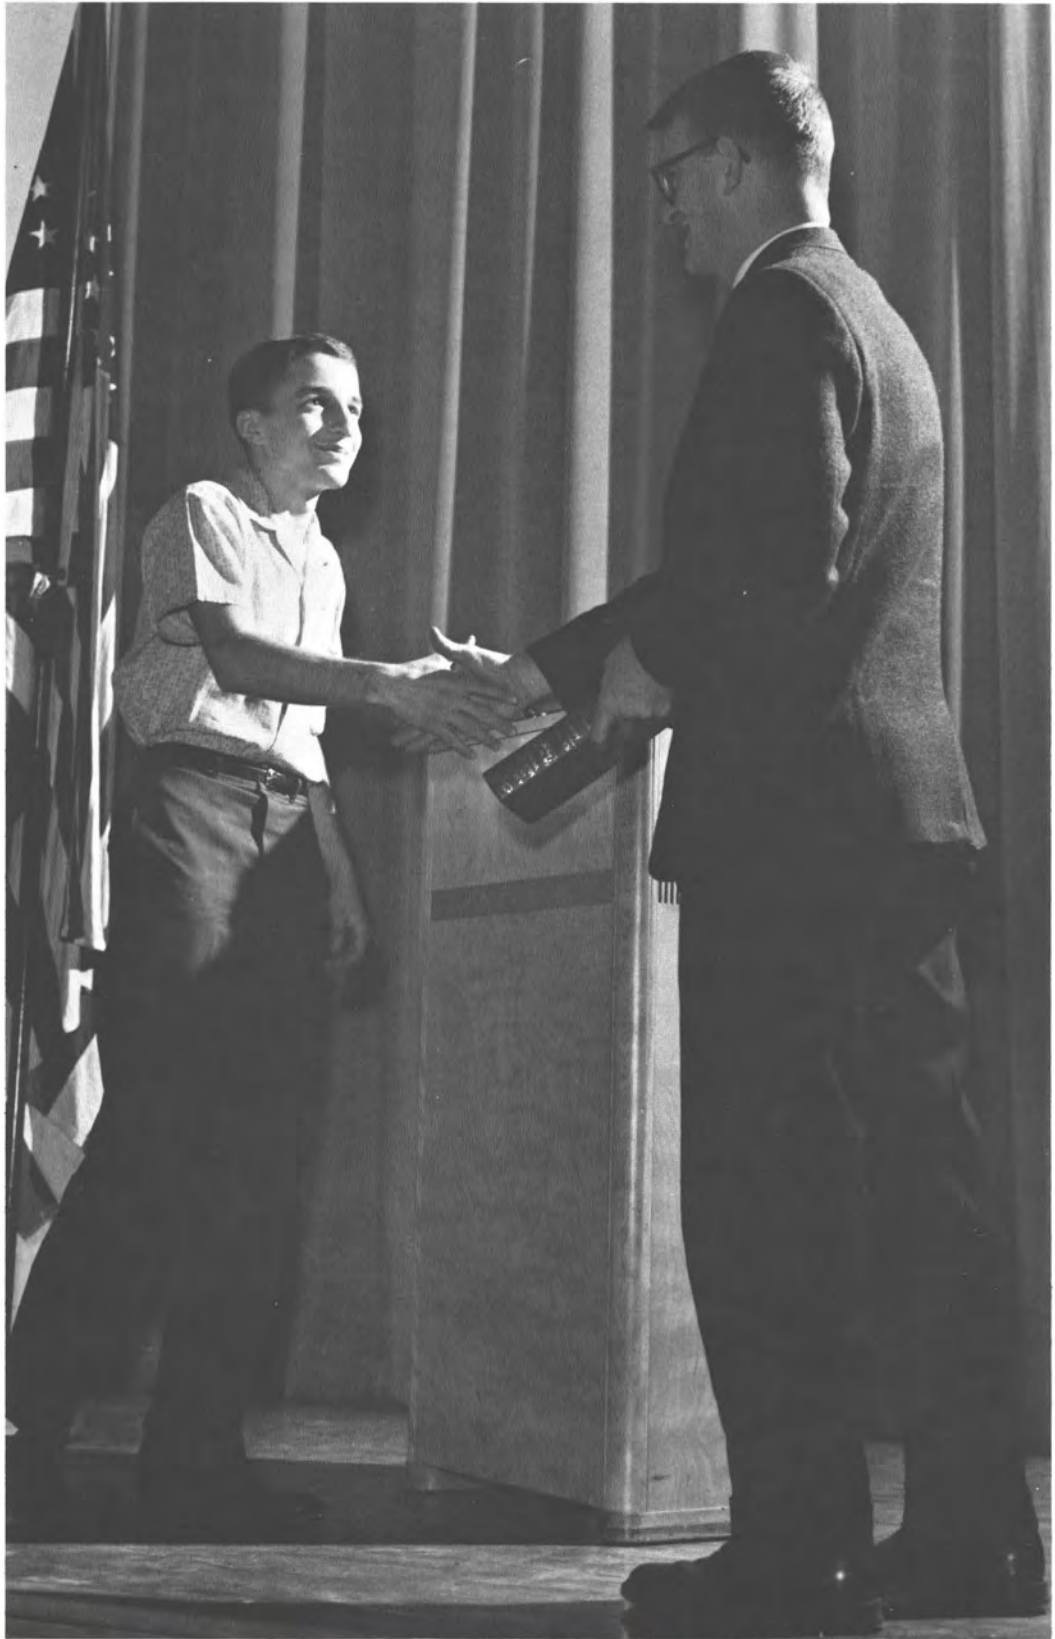

Promoting Physical Fitness

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION—
Back row: Mr. Rizzo, Mr. Almansberger, Mr. Cucinella, Mr. Connelly. Front row: Mr. Ortolani, Mr. Morse, Mr. Bushnell.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

STUDYING for an English exam instead of watching the Monday Night Movie, doing a term paper instead of reading The Hobbit, solving a math problem instead of just watching Superman; this is deserving of special recognition. These are the sacrifices those people make who receive special recognition for academic achievement or for participation in programs offered outside East High School. Not only are these actions worthy of praise; but it would be a shame to let them go unrecognized.

This is why achievements are given a special recognition section and why assemblies are held and commendations are given. It does help to be self-sacrificing and ascetic if one is rewarded for it. Everyone likes to be commended on a job well done, and the people deserving commendation are gratified for it. We hope that this feeling of gratification will prompt these people and others to continue or begin, as the case may be, to excel in their various fields. We hope it will make them want to go on to greater and more important things as a result of their immediate success and the recognition they received for it.

In the following section, we wish to pay tribute to those who have diligently pursued their various interests and who have done what their minds, in the pursuit of knowledge bid them to do; these are the individuals who are truly deserving of East High's special recognition.

Fostering A Greek Child

"... and I want to be someone some day."

These words from a small Greek boy voice a sentiment felt by most of us, and we are helping him attain his dream. Dimitrios Kakaris, a nine-year old boy, lives with his parents on a farm in a village of northern Greece. Health problems have made it impossible for his father to farm their land so the burden falls entirely upon his mother. They barely make a living, and so, to provide the child with the essentials of life, the Student Government Association of East High has joined the Foster Parents Plan. The money that we pay toward his support provides him with medical care, food in some quantities, suitable clothing and a counseling service available to his parents in helping them with their many difficulties. Our aid benefits the parents as well as the children of the family. In return, Dimitrios writes letters to East High keeping us informed of his progress in school and in life. The following is one of his letters:

Dear foster parents,

I was delighted to learn that you have undertaken my support, I attend the 3rd grade of the primary school. I like school very much and I want to be someone one day. I also like to play and especially soccer ball. I also play hide-and-seek and other games. My brother is called Pantelis. He is one year older than me. We love each other and we play together. I will tell you more next time. I received the 240 dr ($8.00) for August and I thank you very much. I greet you with joy and love.

Dimitrios Kakaris

Dimitrios Kakaris

There is something more that we owe to Dimitrios besides our aid, and that is our awareness that he is more than a monthly eight dollar obligation. In the same manner, he must be made aware that East High is people and not just the name he writes on a letter each month. His letters deserve to be answered; they aren't. Through the interest East High students provide, Dimitrios can receive our love besides our aid and in this way, we will help him to become "someone some day."

The top ten members in academic standing of the senior class compose the top two per cent of this year's graduating class. Their hard work and perseverance during their high school years have enabled them to achieve this very high honor and by maintaining the scholastic standards of East High School, they have bestowed pride and honor on both the administration and student body.

The Wolgast Chapter of the National Honor Society is composed of seniors who have a B average or better and possess fine qualities of character, leadership, and service. Outstanding juniors who have had final grades of B or above are inducted in the spring. This year the members of the N.H.S., accompanied by the group's advisors, Miss Carnahan and Mr. Youngman, were guests of the Middlesex Valley Central School for the induction ceremony of its N.H.S. members. The N.H.S. has also continued its tutoring program, posting the honor roll, and taking the responsibilities concerning fire and shelter drill signals. This year the organization also ushered at East High School for the Transfer of Flags ceremonies. In continuing these services, the National Honor Society carries on its long-standing tradition of character, service, scholarship, and leadership.

Last spring, more than 800,000 students in the United States took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. On the basis of their scores, 38,000 were awarded Letters of Commendation which placed them in the top two per cent of high school seniors. In addition to the students who received these Letters at East High School, one senior, Peter Sturms, achieved the standing of semi-finalist enabling him to compete for further awards.

Receiving

HARVARD BOOK AWARD—Roger Kindler

The Harvard Book Award is presented to the outstanding member of the junior class who has shown the highest degree of scholastic achievement in his high school years.

The Rochester Association for the United Nations is composed of representatives from area high schools who have a similar interest in the United Nations. The meetings, held at the Chamber of Commerce building, feature renowned speakers such as Dexter Perkins, a noted historian, who speak on issues of the past and present. Through the R.A.U.N., students can become better informed about vital issues and develop a better understanding of the U.N.

D.A.R. AWARD—Janice Mancuso

The Award of the Daughters of the American Revolution is presented to a senior girl possessing outstanding qualities of scholarship and citizenship.

The Wide Horizons Program consists of monthly seminars at which students are able to informally discuss topics on a wide variety of subjects with faculty members of the University of Rochester. The seminars, held at Cutler Union, are attended by student representatives who come from most of the Monroe County high schools and are chosen for their superior scholastic ability.

R.A.U.N.—Nancy Weber

WIDE HORIZONS—Carol Mooney, Peter Sturms

Special Honors

EMPIRE BOYS' STATE—Jim Elving, Jim Mangano

Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, the Empire Boys' and Girls' State provides experience in citizenship for potential student leaders in our state. For a week during the summer East High's representatives were citizens of a mythical state and took part in mock elections on the city, county, and state levels. Highlights of the week included well-known political guest speakers and attendance at a session of Congress in Albany.

EMPIRE GIRLS' STATE—Sally Valentine

BAUSCH AND LOMB SCIENCE
AWARD—William Brand

Every year the Bausch and Lomb division of the Chamber of Commerce recognizes exceptional achievement in the field of science by presenting the Bausch and Lomb Science Award in each area high school.

Representatives from each city high school and some area schools, chosen by the music department heads and the school principal, meet monthly as the Junior Planning Council of the Civic Music Association. The representatives plan functions for the CMA, hear guest speakers, and this year, the association held a reception for the exchange students.

Communicating

Last summer, under the auspices of Youth for Understanding, I was privileged to share the home of a Chilean family as an exchange student. My family lived in Santiago, the capital of Chile and from the very beginning when they met me at the airport, my family made me feel wanted and truly welcome.

My family had five members — Papy and Mami, an architect and secretary respectively; two sisters, Marta and Sandra ages 14 and 11; and my five year old brother Claudio. I shared many things in common with my family and also discovered differences in various customs, such as family names and meals. Their four meals a day really developed my appetite!

Since my parents both worked during the day, I was allowed to attend St. John's Villa Academy where Sandra and Marta were students. Auditing Marta's classes taught me much about Chile's school system as well as developing my Castellano vocabulary. Three days per week I attended the Instituto Chileno Norteamericano de Cultura to study Castellano and Chilean history.

Under the guidance of my family, I learned much about the customs and culture of Chile; and this knowledge, plus my family, made a most wonderful, exciting, and rewarding summer.

Dawn Lohr

Last summer I spent two unforgettable months in Sweden, all made possible by the Youth for Understanding Organization. I think the best part of the whole summer was that I stayed in Sweden not as a tourist but as a member of a Swedish family and because of this arrangement, I got to see a Sweden that few tourists can.

I lived with a family of four in Koping, a small town located on Lake Malaren. During the course of the summer, I became acquainted with the bastu (the Swedish form of sauna), and eating the illegal fish my Swedish sister and I caught at Lake Langsven where our summer house is located (neither of us had fishing licenses). There were also dances and crayfish parties and a week spent in Stockholm, an utterly fantastic city.

Mainly, however, I had the most fun just getting to know people and doing ordinary things. Many people ask me, "What was it like in Sweden?, What did you do?" I think they expect a concise appraisal of Sweden and a huge list of foreign, far-away sounding names of places and of events. The extraordinary might be interesting, but it far from occupied my entire summer.

One generalization I can honestly make though, is that I had the best time of my life. I got a chance to know lots of wonderful people; people who are proud of Sweden and being Swedish, and I experienced a small part of Swedish life that I'll always remember.

Debbie Jeffs

Debbie Jeffs, Dawn Lohr.

Because the Youth For Understanding Program is very popular in our school and in my German family, I applied and was accepted as the fifth exchange student in our school and the third in my family. My two older sisters had been in Michigan and ever since then, we have had a lot of American food in my home, so that it did not seem strange to me when I came here. I also knew much about the American school system, which is quite different from that of Germany's. I am impressed by the pupil's activities and clubs and also by the variety of these facilities.

My school in Germany only has about six hundred students and it has its one hundred fiftieth anniversary next year. You can imagine that I was a little scared when I first saw the huge, modern school building of East High.

I enjoy being a member of my family while staying here in America. While here, I try to be as American as possible. I'm sure that I will miss America, Rochester, East High, and all the friends I have made very much. I want to say "Vielen Dank" to you all for this marvelous year, which I will never forget.

Christa Stoevesandt

Across the World

Almost one and a half years ago, I heard about the Youth For Understanding for the first time from my principal, Mr. Lunell, who thought that it would be good for me. It is worth a try at least, I thought and applied at the last minute with help of friends, teachers, and the principal. It was well worth the try, for during the six months I have spent here I have not only increased my knowledge in English, but also my ability to understand other people and maybe even more important, to understand myself and my own country. To live as a member of a family is the best way to get to know a foreign country and makes it more pleasant to visit it in the future as a tourist.

Before I came to America, I had many different ideas about the customs and living. On the boat we discussed America and sometimes such bad or odd things were said that I wanted to go home again. None of the things were true however; school and people are less different than I expected.

On the whole this has been an extraordinary year with lots of experiences, fun, and new friends. I want to thank all of you for being friendly to me this year and having helped me to get accustomed to school and people. I am disappointed when I think that there are only four and a half months left of the time here. But I will come back, if not as a student, as a tourist, and I am sure it will be a pleasure.

Elan, above all other words, can achieve adequacy in describing the attitude of foreign exchange students found in America today. They possess a lust for life; an unquenchable curiosity with which they search for truth and a meaning to an undefinable abstraction. Instead of leading a complacent existence, they meet life in an effort to grasp a knowledge of a reality. Their display of fearlessness in this endeavor makes us appear small and ineffective by comparison. We are mere spectators in a game they play with ease. I have found participation by observation extremely gratifying. Participation itself must be absolute euphoria.

Eric Stonehill

Having someone from another country live in my home is not a new experience for my family, but having a sister my own age has been a first for me. It took only a few days for me to feel that Christa "belonged", and it became apparent that Youth For Understanding had made an excellent choice sending her to my family. Our relationship is typical of most sisters with lots of teasing, arguing, fooling, talking, and sharing! Her English is so good that we had no difficulty communicating from the moment we first met.

Since I have had the opportunity to know Christa, her family, and her country and to attend Teen Age Diplomat activities, I recognize how similar young people are no matter where they live. I believe that more personal contacts between nations will demand that the world find a way to live together in peace.

Seeing parts of our country and ways of life with Christa has helped me to appreciate the things I ordinarily take for granted, but I have also had to recognize that we have great problems to be solved, before we can really claim to be the land of the free, with equal opportunity for all.

Once again this year East High students have had the opportunity to take part in the retail or office co-operative program. Before participation in either plan, each applicant is carefully screened by the counselor, the teacher in charge, and the city co-ordinator, to see if he can meet the heavy requirements; he must be above average in both grades and character, personable, and reputable in school and community.

The office co-op, under the direction of Mrs. Spafford, is training and experience for the student interested in a career in the office or secretarial field. The third and fourth periods of each school day are spent in the office practice courses taught by Mrs. Spafford. Here students are instructed in basic office and clerical procedures. They learn how to operate such office machines as the keypunch, dictaphone, adding machine, and mimeograph. The second phase of the program begins at the conclusion of fourth period when the pupils leave school and go to jobs throughout the city of Rochester where they must make a practical application of their knowledge. The city co-ordinator, Miss Chestnut, carefully selects each of these jobs in area concerns including the Board of Education, public library, radio station, and factories.

The retail co-op operates in much the same procedure for students interested in retailing and merchandising. However, after only one period of class instruction by Mr. DePierro the students go to jobs in major Rochester department stores.

The benefits of the co-operative programs are numerous. Aside from receiving the weekly paycheck, a student who is rated highly in the classroom and on the job earns two school credits. By linking school and occupation, co-op gives the student an awareness of the business world that will be invaluable in future years.

Outside the School

The annex program adopted by many of the city schools has been designed to provide the student with a skill that he will be able to use to gain employment after graduation. The courses, offered for regular high school credit, provide the opportunity for the student to have a basic education in "a marketable skill upon completion of education." The student eats at his home school cafeteria, and there uses his gymnasium, pool and auditorium. Laboratory work only is done at the high school annex. Deciding whether or not a student will be able to cope with the annex program and whether it will be to his advantage is the job of the home school. The students are transported in two shifts, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

The courses offered apply themselves to automobile mechanics, carpentry, plumbing, home appliance repair, and service station attendant for the boys, to cosmetology, interior decorating, baking, practical nursing, and nurse's aide for the girls, and commercial art, drafting, office skills and data processing for all. Academic work to supplement the occupational aspect of the program is obtained at the home school, while high school credit, up to two units, may be earned by attending the annex. There are two programs, one lasting two years, open to juniors, and a one year course open to seniors.

And so, through the occupational education program, while gaining experience in his chosen field of study or occupation, the student gains experience in social conduct and receives credit toward graduation.

Progressing

Many social studies students benefit by the team teaching program. Large group sessions allow for the expression of many different ideas, while the seminar meetings provide discussions in more detail and enable a student to "iron out" any problems he may have.

One of the highlights of the large group sessions this year was a question and answer period in the Forum Room with Dr. William Lotspeich, chairman of the physiology department at the University of Rochester and director of the American Friends Service Committee.

LARGE GROUP HISTORY—Back row: Mr. Baldino, Mrs. Wayne, Mr. Tomlinson, Mr. Hunter. Front row: Mrs. Brown, Mr. Simpson, Mrs. Terrell.

Large Group Physics is notorious for its brutal tests, trying laboratory sessions, and many long hours of homework. It is undoubtedly the most difficult course in the school but is also one of the best, for it requires the student to think, to really understand his subject in order to do well in it. The course forces the student to call upon and use much of the scientific and mathematical knowledge that he has accumulated in previous courses. There is no East High course more challenging, but there are very few as intellectually stimulating and satisfying as Large Group Physics.

Capable English students are prepared for college-level study in large group classes. Mass group lectures attended by about eighty students alternate with small group seminars which provide more individual and informal instruction. The team teaching program offers many advantages. Teachers can thoroughly cover more material. Students benefit from hearing lectures presented by the teacher most versed on the subject to be discussed. Also through the seminars which are composed of about twenty people who meet following the large group lectures, individuals can more readily participate in the discussion.

By Advanced Curriculum

The Advanced Placement faculty at East is well qualified and succeeds in its goal of providing students with efficient and unusual courses designed for the inquiring mind. An advanced placement course requires special preparation and thought by the teachers along with the active responses and individual initiative by the students. It is the task of the instructor to present material to the student so as to stimulate his interest in the subject. By lectures, outside additional reading material, and painstaking individual study, students are able to attempt these first year college courses at the high school level.

New this year to East High School is the program which, initiated by the Future Teachers of America Club, provides teachers with extra help during the school day. These individuals, members of Future Teachers of America, assist a particular teacher who wants their help by typing and running off dittos, making overlays in the library or any work that is time-consuming for the teacher yet essential in his work. By this type of system both parties benefit: the teacher's aide understands the work involved in a teacher's day and in this way gets a better look at the field of teaching and the teacher himself receives added and much needed help.

In Memoriam

Although this year has had its happy moments, it has also had its moments of sorrow; death has claimed two of the faculty members of East High.

Mrs. Katzen

The students who experienced classes with Mrs. Katzen have indeed lost a dedicated teacher. Between the years of 1923 and 1961 after her graduation from the University of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Katzen was a housewife and had no particular desire for a career. This length of time, however, did not stop her from entering the University of Rochester, receiving a Masters Degree, and graduating with high standing. After spending some time at Jefferson High School, she came to East High and since then had done fine work with slow learners. She was determined that any student should obtain the opportunity to learn and explore every possibility more easily and thoroughly. She felt that she never had any bad students, only misunderstood ones.

Mr. J. Reeve

Mr. Jay Reeve, a graduate of Ohio State University, taught social studies at East High. After graduate work at the University of Rochester, Hobart College, and the University of Denver, Mr. Reeve taught in Rochester for six years before coming to East High. Being an understanding teacher, he knew how much self-sufficiency meant to the students and so, he was an advisor to the Student Government Association as well as a dedicated faculty member.

These two teachers leave behind them fond memories and thoughts of their years at East to be remembered by all who knew them.

ACTIVITIES

THE various after school clubs and organizations at East High contribute towards the development of awareness and responsibility in the individual student and enable him to work with others toward a common goal. The fellowship offered in these organizations is invaluable to the personal growth of the individual and contributes toward his public education. It is necessary for everyone to get a thorough academic education but it is also necessary to have a good education in getting along with others. This is where outside activities have their purpose.

Activities contribute an important measure toward student life and the student's enjoyment of his school as well as playing an important role in service to the school and the community. There are those clubs which try to develop the cultural interest of the masses with periodic excursions to places of interest in the realms of the arts, history, and other pertinent subjects. Others try to renew knowledge in American and foreign cultures and humanitarian thought as well as gain knowledge of the thoughts and cultures of little known, little cared for peoples across the world. Still others provide opportunities to develop better oral and written communication between the students while other activities satisfy those interested in the technological aspects of the world. Edith Hamilton, a famous author, once said:

To be able to be caught up in the world of thought — that is educated.

Education does not consist entirely of thought and study. Ability to get along with others, the ability to see a wrong and change it to a right, opportunity to discuss and challenge ideas and then accept or reject them; this all is demonstrated not only by an education full of books and assignments, exams and finals, but also by the education obtained by a student the minute he decides to participate in any extra-curricular activity.

Activity and fellowship are an integral part of a well-rounded education, and it is the organizations at East High which provide the opportunity for more than merely academic knowledge.

Functioning As A Unit

Because of the continual growth and progress of East High, there is a constant need for better organized and more widely varied activities. The Student Government Association, usually the first to change and adapt to new situations, must initiate new school policies. This year was one which made the SGA co-sponsor of all school wide functions. This was to act as a control mechanism to insure no exploitation of any one organization over the rest of the students and to insure the benefit of all the students. Under this policy, East High held many more dances this year featuring such groups as the "Invictas", "The Hangmen", and "The Root of All Evil". Quite removed from the popular music scene were the more sophisticated evenings spent with Carl Dengler and his orchestra as the Commons Room was transformed to "Midnight Magic" at the Christmas Dance and again with Bob Bruce's orchestra to "February Fantasy", the turnabout dance. A first at East this year was the double opera program provided by the SGA featuring "Pagliacci" and "The Birthday of the Infanta" held in the auditorium.

As with any political organization striving to please all of the people all of the time, some conflict is inevitable. In its effort to do the best, the SGA ran into various disciplinary problems with the representatives. Due to the ambiguity of the cabinet posts and the unenthusiastic response to menial duties, the cabinet was disbanded and an advisory council set up to do the work necessary to make a successful student government. The organization itself, however, was not to blame entirely for the conflict because the gross lack of student participation and spirit in the beginning of the year also had a major influence.

There are many people who are responsible for the success of the SGA: Mr. Baldino, the advisor whose suggestions did so much to revolutionize the student government concept; Dominic Pellegrino; whose foresight created the advisory committee for the purpose of demanding students' rights and who gave unselfishly of his time to further the organization; and last but not least, the students themselves. Although a large measure of the success belongs to the officials and the SGA, an equal portion must be given to the students at East for their participation and cooperation in seeing that each SGA event was more successful than the last.

A typical cabinet meeting before the innovation of the advisory council.

The sophomore class has had a successful year under the guidance of Mr. Giallombardo and Miss Lesko who replaced Mrs. Carpenter as advisor. Beginning with a Sophomore-SGA sponsored dance held on January 13th and featuring "The Trackers", the class greatly improved its treasury. Class spirit reached its apex during the Memorial Scholarship Drive when the sophomores ran a close first place with the seniors in the amount of money collected. Second semester activities included an informal dance held May 5th with "The Soul Survivors" providing the entertainment. With these accomplishments, the sophomore class will undoubtedly continue and be long remembered for their numerous achievements.

The junior class in its desire to add to the class treasury, held a successful and unique sale of toothbrushes to East High students and their families. Another successful venture supervised by class advisors Mrs. Pitrella and Mr. Crane was a dance featuring "The Root of All Evil". However, because a junior year is usually associated with the first class prom, most activities and sales were less important and attention was focused on the event of the year, "The Twelfth of Never" held on May 13th. If the degree of success of the junior year activities is any comparison to what the senior activities will be, the junior class will be financially and socially secure when graduation nears.

Just as the Oriental society has historically been a stable, non-selfish entity, the Orient staff has had to remain a stabilizing force in the many conflicts experienced by the student body. Although the SGA and senior class may split into many factions, the Orient staff must, no matter how trying, work together with ideas, materials, and a short amount of time to produce a yearbook that each of the factions will accept as representative of East High School. Amid unsuspected deadlines and delayed senior pictures, yearbook people must remain calm, reason out the problem and take care of it as best they can. From shooting date to shooting date, and deadline to deadline, work piles up and must be accomplished and completed while time goes by so quickly that no one realizes that there is less than a month until March 27th, the final due date for all Orient copy. Until this time, staff members are kept busy writing copy, making layouts, proofing everything from captions to last spring's baseball scores, and finally instructing this year's juniors who will carry on the tradition of the Orient. After the copy is turned in, the staff waits for the most important date on their calendar, that of the delivery date. The books arrive and no one can quite open them. Awe-stricken, each member realizes that some part of this book is his, either in thought, work, time, or effort. Cautiously someone finally opens the book and leafs slowly from page to page. Looks of awe change to amazement and then to pride. The staff has given East High something to be proud of, a slightly unconventional book perhaps, but one which hopefully will earn the praise and appreciation of East High; one that will inspire greater effort to develop a better Orient in the future years.

The photography editors set up a "candid".

Publishing the

The school newspaper, the Clarion, is the most important of all East High institutions. Its primary purpose is comprehensive intra-school communication; however, because it is a newspaper, the Clarion fulfills many more meaningful secondary purposes.

Through the Clarion's informative news concerning clubs, sports, the faculty and administration, and the S.G.A., the student becomes acquainted with the cosmopolitan community of diversified people, interests, and activities that his school is. He relies upon the Clarion throughout his five years at East to remain in contact with the life of his school; thus the Clarion serves as a most effective force for the transmission of school spirit and the maintenance of school unity.

The Clarion also enlightens the student body on the more controversial issues around the school, such as the S.G.A. dance policy and the de facto abolition of the Cabinet. As the leading school opinion-maker, the Clarion influences student thinking while stimulating thought and interest in the school. It also provides a means for the fairly free expression of student opinion.

Last of all, the Clarion is, in the words of a former editor, "tangible evidence of responsible student accomplishment." To publish the Clarion monthly, an enormous amount of time, raw energy, and administrative and scholastic ability are needed on the part of its staff members. The responsibility upon them is great, and, in general, they meet it well.

When the Clarion ceases to be published, the spirit of East High will either be dead or suppressed.

Helping to Develop

Creative expression needs encouragement in these days of contemporary writing, and the Mosaic provides this encouragement through art, creative prose and poetry writing. Inner frustrations, feelings of sadness or joy, wonder or depression, all these things are reviewed by the Mosaic staff and turned into a literary magazine representing the poignant emotions of the creative element at East High. Magically, the loose papers, the odds and ends scattered throughout notebooks and file cabinets are spirited into one place and after hours and hours of gruelling work and difficult decisions, the magazine is completed and ready for the press. So sophisticated are the layouts, so touching are the stories and poems that, to the people who read it carefully, it appears to be much more than a high school magazine and it certainly is that to everyone who owns a copy or who has worked on the staff.

Under the easy, but firm supervision of Mrs. Stephany, the Mosaic editors and staff, as well as the contributors, Tradition is the key word in describing this alliance, but trips to such plays as the modern version of Moliere's Les Femmes Savants, tend to loosen the tradition enough to provide for a little more enjoyment of France.

The Spanish Club under the direction of Mrs. Harris and Mr. Palleschi and its officers, President, Kris Reed; Vice-president, Eric Wollschleger; Secretary, Beth Rotach; Treasurer, Pam Holden; and Social Chairman, Cynthia Lingg, strives to renew interest in the culture and growth of Spain through its presentations of various programs throughout the year. Congratulations for the success of the bookstore and supply store go to Mr. Schutt and his student volunteers who each morning, during lunches, and a short time after school, offer their services to East High School students.

Members of the corridor patrol provide an important service to the school for they contribute to the safety of all East High students. They can be looked upon as a disciplinary organization in that they are required to verify all passes students should have while passing through the halls. The safety element enters when a patrol member sees any suspicious characters wandering the halls or when he notices any signs of danger such as a possible accident or fire.

Requirements for membership are an overall C average with no failing grades and the applicant must be a junior or senior. This organization should not be looked upon as a change from a boring study hall but as a position of service to the school.

Technical Necessities

Immediate and accurate mass communication is essential for the smooth operation of East's many extra-curricular institutions and administrative organs. So very important, therefore, is this service, performed by the P.A. Announcers, whose voices flood the school every morning bearing valuable news of club and S.G.A. activities, sports events, advertisements etc. to the East High community.

ANNOUNCERS—Eric Neill, Ann Salter, John Andres.

STAGE CREW—Tom McDermott, George Wilcox, Frank Cataldo, Michael Nyerges, John Pavone, Mr. Dolan, Craig Hanson.

The Stage Crew, under the direction of Mr. Dolan, carries on the 'behind the scenes' labor in preparation for our assemblies and such special events as the Senior Play and the Scholar-for-a-Day Program. The Crew's duties include lighting and acoustical technology, and curtain and scenery coordination.

Exploring Beyond the Confines

Through individual and group discussions and activities, the Science Club promotes knowledge of and interest in the field of science. The club, as one of its functions, chartered a bus to the Brockport Science Fair during March. Here they viewed projects constructed by various students from all over New York State. Also during the past year, the Science Club has had Mr. Sydney Gameen and Mr. Ken Budinski as guest speakers on Material Science, and the club itself has held demonstrations of scientific apparatus after school for interested students. Through the leadership of Mr. Goodwin and the club's officers, John Iaia, President; Seth Reichlin, Vice-president; Craig Hanson, Treasurer; and William Hoffman, Secretary, and the many and varied activities, this organization enhances student interest in the sciences.

The Psychology Club of East High School, under the direction of the school's psychologist, Miss Pettigrass, carries on its own exploration of the human mind through individual study, guest speakers, and affiliations with the University of Rochester. Not having any in-school psychology courses to serve as a basis for inquiry, the Psychology Club must rely on information from any well-informed source available. By holding monthly meetings that include films and often such speakers as Dr. Hodgeman, chairman of the Adolescent Committee at Strong Memorial Hospital, who spoke on LSD, the club obtains its information. With President, Fran Lachiusa; Vice-president, Carolyn Mooney; and Secretary-Treasurer, Carol Marrocco, the club visited the U. of R. to see films and tour the Brain Research Center. As one of its last activities this year, the club raised money to buy toys for children at mental hospitals in the area.

of the Classroom

Under the direction of Mr. Drake and President, Dawn Lohr; Vice-president, Joseph Balter; Secretary, Lee Perkins; and Treasurer, Deborah Granite, the Debate Club of East High School enables its members to explore, understand, and convey facts and ideas through the art of debate. Such topics as "Should LSD be legalized?" and "Should abortion laws be changed?" develop the minds of Debate Club members to become more critical and defensive when ideas are challenged. Members also benefit from the knowledge they gain when doing research on material to be debated.

An organization dedicated to the furthering of interest in history, government, and culture; an organization aimed at understanding man in all his aspects so that mankind can act responsibly, collectively, and individually; this is the History Forum. Interest in humanity is exhibited in all History Forum undertakings from the weekly bulletin of around-the-town events to the drive for contributions for Italian Art Restoration necessitated by the Florintinian floods, to the innovation of an award to foster renewed interest in the humanistic subjects. Also sponsored by the History Forum was a scholar-for-a-day program to give students a chance to ask questions and air their views on current problems. Visits by Mr. Powers, now state senator, and Mr. Barasch, A.P. American History teacher both speaking on issues of current interest; trips to the Albright-Knox Art Gallery in Buffalo and to the state capitol to watch the legislature in action; these things make the History Forum a club of invaluable enjoyment to all those interested in man, his past, his present, and his future. Under the direction of Mr. Simpson and officers, Roger Kindler, President; Carl Edwards, Vice-president; Sandy Capone, Treasurer; Ulrich Haibach, Program Chairman; Irene Dymkar, Recording Secretary; and Kathy Herman, Correspondence, the History Forum has remained one of the more purposeful clubs at East High.

In accordance with its wish to provide something for everyone, East High is an active member of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, an organization for students interested in a future in the business world of marketing and distribution. East High's chapter of DECA, under the presidency of Maureen Leonard working with Vice-president, Margaret Michniewicz; Secretary, Cindy Mack; Treasurer, Elaine Gorall; Historian, Annette Peralta, and Sergeant-at-Arms, Toby Topi, has been very active this year with activities such as a fruit cake sale for Christmas, a bowling party, and a joint chapter banquet with other local schools. Visits to the local department stores to find out more information about retailing, and guest speakers as somewhat secondary activities were highlighted by a trip to Concord, New York to attend the election of the New York State officers of DECA. That trip concluded this year's activities for the club; a year that is sure to be remembered as one of the best in the existence of the organization at East.

The primary purpose of the Library Club is to be of service to the various educational departments at East High while enriching its own knowledge of library facilities. At bi-monthly meetings, presided over by President, Sue Clague, and Secretary-Treasurer, Sharon Evans, plans are made for various and more effective ways to make the club available to teachers by making copies of exams and other supplementary papers to supply added understanding of a difficult topic.

The proposed plan for the conversion of D200 into a study complex with individual study closets was a co-operative effort among the students, teachers, and school officials concerning the selection of materials to be incorporated into usage. Although not to be effective this year, there will eventually be individual study cabinets with connections for films, recordings, and special books. Through the cooperation between the Library Club and its advisors, facilities are made more easily accessible to the East High student and faculty enrollment.

Through Future Teachers of America, those students interested in pursuing a career in this field meet together to increase their interest and knowledge in the teaching profession. The main goal of the club is to encourage members to train for this vital and demanding career. This year co-operating with the club's advisor, Mr. Muratore, were the officers, President, Pat Indovina; Vice-president, Dianne Anderson; Secretary, Janis Jacobs; Treasurer, Becky Lauge-man; and Social Chairman, Linda Staples. On March 17th, the club took a trip to the Spring Conference of Future Teachers at Brockport State Teachers College where various lectures were given on all aspects of teaching. During the year, a candy sale was held which netted over one hundred dollars in profits. Part of the money was given to the Wilcox Memorial Scholarship Fund and the remainder was used for the trip to Brockport.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA—Back row: Shirley Maranda, Sue Clague, Martha Barg, Donna Frati, Louise Scuderi, Linda Muto, Beth Rotach, Joanne Manske. Middle row: Rosanne Bagne, Jeanne

In the Art Club, under the guidance of Mr. Berry and Mr. Hughes, interested art students may continue their projects and begin new ones outside of the classroom. There are practically no limits on materials and ideas for new projects are always accepted. Paintings, sculptures, prints, jewelry, and pencil sketches are continually developed.

President, Bill Riker; Vice-president, Barb Klemen; and Secretary-Treasurer, Sharon Evans, preside over meetings and as one activity this year they accompanied the History Forum Club to the Albright Knox Gallery in Buffalo. New this year, the Art Club hopes to increase its membership and take more trips to various other galleries and in this way obtain a greater student appreciation of past and present art.

Pursuing

The aim of the Ski Club is to give ski instructions to students for both their enjoyment and their safety. In the beginning, instructional classes are held in the gym with Mr. Kurtz directing. After the skiers are well prepared, ski trips are taken and the members can use either beginner, intermediate, or advanced slopes depending on their progress. The club has planned and enjoyed days at Ski Valley and Swain and has enjoyed themselves safely because of the organized skill and knowledge received through instructions.

The Junior Red Cross strives to promote world understanding by participating in international service projects at the school level. This year, the organization, in order to raise money for Thailand, held a Miss Thailand contest. A contestant was chosen from each class and received donations from the student body. The class which contributed the greatest amount of money won the contest. This was an excellent means for the student body to become interested in the drive, which inevitably enabled the Junior Red Cross to perform a great service to a foreign country, thus completing another worthwhile project.

Special Interests

The Health Careers Club is made up of students who share an interest in the various medical fields. This year, these future nurses, doctors, dieticians, and therapists made visits to the State Hospital and the Strong Memorial Hospital Research Laboratory. They also heard lectures by such speakers as the Director of Sanitation of the good ship Hope. In these ways, this club, under the direction of Mrs. Copeland, was given a chance to exchange ideas with people involved in health careers today.

SPORTS

*Sons of Orient lift high your voices,
Let the purple proudly stream.
See them marching ever, ever onward,
As we cheer the Orient team . . .*

SO BEGINS the great song composed so long ago by which many East High teams have been inspired to victory. Outstanding teams in almost all sports have always been part of our tradition for over half of a century, a reflection of the dynamic vitality of East High School. That venerable tradition was further upheld by the 1966-67 winning varsity teams of EHS, led by the brilliant Basketball Team and the invincible Track Squad, both champions of the Interscholastic League and of the Section V. Other Oriental teams followed their examples with the Bowling Team capturing the city title, the Baseball Team tying for first place in its division, the Swimming and Cross Country Teams finishing in second place, and the Football Team grinding out its best record in several years. Other less noted but still important sports activities are the intra-mural programs in basketball, swimming, volleyball, and tennis; the girls' interscholastic sports; and such special activities offered by the Synchronized Swim Club, the Varsity Club and the Girls' Athletic Association.

Many things result from our athletes' efforts: satisfaction for the individual, glory for the team, and credit for the school. In addition, throughout East's history, its teams have been invaluable in promoting and maintaining school spirit and unity, and in respectably representing our school to those outside the East High community. For these reasons, the Orient dedicates the succeeding pages to these hard-working, hard-fighting Sons of Orient.

*...Tear them up for old Orient,
Let your courage never fail.
Against the might of the purple and white,
No team ever can prevail.*

Under the coaching of Mr. Carlsen, the soccer team ended its Interscholastic league competition with a 3-5 record. The team gave its spectators many exciting games during the season. East commenced its season with an impressive victory of 5-0 over Edison. Later East met Franklin in the toughest game of the year. Franklin nipped East 5-3.

The team was led in scoring by Bill Case and Carl Bestor, who were chosen as All-Scholastics.

Cross Country

This year's Cross Country Team was surprisingly successful. Few people expected much from the team since it was composed mostly of rookie runners under the direction of a new coach, Mr. Parrinello. However, by the end of the season, when East had placed second in the interscholastic league, losing by only four points to Franklin, it became apparent the team was the finest produced by East in three years. Much credit should be given to Mr. Parrinello, who did an outstanding job developing his runners.

Ron Baker, a junior, earned a berth on the All-Scholastic team by finishing third in the city individual meet. In the Section V championship, he outran all other city runners to place fifteenth in a field of one-hundred eighty nine Western New York runners.

The 1966 gridiron may have marked a turning point in football at East. After years of poor showings, this year's squad showed great spirit and enthusiasm. All-Scholastic quarterback Phil Mangano used the expert running of Tom Brown, John Pavone, and Sam Gray to great advantage with end Fred Forbes as a constant threat to other teams.

After shocking Franklin, a 7-1 record seemed easily within reach. A combination of pure "choke" and bad luck gave us a 4-4 record, still our best in many seasons. The 1966 team didn't take it all, but it did prove that East can play football.

ALL-SCHOLASTIC—Phil Mangano.

Wrestling

The wrestling team, coached once again by Mr. Almansberger, ended its season with a 3-5 record. This unfortunate finish was due to lack of depth. The team this year was quite small and as a result was forced to forfeit many of its matches.

Unlike other sports wrestling is an individual sport which requires a serious wrestler with intelligence, determination and endurance; and coach Almansberger did have such participants. In the Jefferson Christmas Tournament East took second place honors. Representing East were Ernie Smith, Maurice Beckwith, and Jim Griner. This year Carmen Oliveri, Ernie Smith, and Joe Conley went on to take city championships and Ernie went all the way to capture the Section V 98 lb. class crown.

Wrestling, as a spectator sport, is steadily growing and will eventually have sell-out crowds.

Annual Section V AA Champions

The East High cagers are King. King of the Christmas Tournament, King of the Interscholastic League, and King of Section Five. King of Kings, Norman Bounds, averaged 20 points and 17 rebounds per game at center as well as excellent defense and intimidation. Super Sophomore, Sam Gray, hit for 12 points and gathered in 10 rebounds a game as a forward. Doug Cash, the other forward, pumped in 8.4 points a game for fine support. Fantastic Freddie Forbes confused defenders with his ballhandling and playmaking, as well as his amazingly quick set shot, which produced 11.6 points a game. It was freshman coach Rizzo's job to coordinate these stars into a team. He set up the tightest defense in the area, as well as a good offense to round out the team.

After mauling the regular season opponents, (check the Jeff score) East really sparkled in the Sectional Tournament. After dusting off Eastridge and Corning, East handed over-rated Rush a severe drubbing in the finals, for the Section Five title.

Bounds, Gray, and Forbes were named to both the All-Scholastic and All-Sectional teams, Gray taking the Sectional MVP Award.

Despite its unbalanced nature, East's varsity baseball team finished the 1966 season with an 8-4 league record plus two victories over non-leaguers. The strong pitching staff relied on All-Scholastic Doug Scoville's 5-2 record with support from Tom Knapp, who posted three victories. Led by John Cummings and Denny Scoville, our fielding was well above par. The team's only weakness was below-average hitting, which was partially offset by strong and daring base running. Despite this flaw, East was able to achieve a tie with Monroe for first place in Division I.

Track

The 1966 Track and Field Team was probably the best track team produced by East High in many years. The team, having both stars and depth, provided a solid lineup in every event. It also had a tenacious fighting spirit which so many track teams lack. This enormous talent and spirit, under the guidance of a superior coaching staff, proved to be invincible in the area track world last spring.

In league meets, every Rochester school fell, including East's ancient track rivals, Monroe and Edison, and the Orientals captured the city championship handily. We accounted for four of the eleven places on the All-Scholastic team. Finally, lead by Norm Bounds, who finished first in both the high jump and hurdles, East captured the Section V team crown, rounding out a perfect season.

SENIORS

UPON our graduation in June, we seniors will thoughtfully recall five enjoyable and memorable years at East High School. We will remember the administrators, the counselors, the advisors, and the teachers who have prepared us both academically and spiritually for the world outside the doors of East High. They have equipped us with a basic understanding of people, which is fundamental for a complete and satisfying existence.

We will not, however, lose ourselves in thoughts of the past, for within our grasp lies a future of limitless possibilities. We realize what we have been capable of accomplishing in the past, and we are now aware of the vast opportunities that await us tomorrow.

We are ready to become a part of the future, a future which is untouched and vast in scope. It remains to see what we will do with the opportunities that are awaiting us; the decision will be ours.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS—Joe Mannara, Phil Banks, Carm Lachiusa, Judy Amico, Jim Elving.

Hallways, strange faces, hundred's of rooms; teachers to meet, new names to learn, great opportunities . . . such was the atmosphere surrounding the eighth grade class of East High on that hectic September day of 1962. There were diverse adjustments to be made in the transfer from grammar school to high school, the most trying of them being the traditional ridiculing and condescending attitudes of the upperclassmen. Though this period in the history of the class of 1967 was a time of trials, we were able to survive, and in so doing, began our first of five exciting and informative years at East High School.

SENIOR CLASS ADVISORS
Mr. Cantrell, Mrs. Foley

Our freshmen year became the basis for a series of successful years to follow. Advisors of the class, Mr. Cantrell and Mrs. Foley along with class officers, Dick Rowley, President; John Francione, Vice-president; Donna Melnyk, Secretary; Curt Smith, Treasurer; and Ruth Schmitt, Social Chairman, initiated the first of many activities with a candy sale and freshmen dance featuring "The Thunderbirds." The success of these events enabled our freshmen class to become more unified which led directly to its awareness of the importance of class spirit.

As the class of 1967 gained recognition in its third year of establishment, we were able to hold two successful informal dances featuring "King Arthur and The Knights" and "The Pharoahs." Under the leadership of President, John Francione; Vice-president, Joe Mannara; Secretary, Dawn Lohr; Treasurer, Doug Cash; and Social Chairman, Mary-jo Benfante, our class further increased its treasury with the sale of peanut brittle in December.

A magazine sale and a dance featuring "The Root of All Evil" in our junior year proved to be two profitable ventures that greatly strengthened class spirit. A pizza sale, held to raise money for the Wilcox Memorial Scholarship Fund, enabled our class to contribute more money than any other class and won us the honor of taking over the administration of the school for one day. Directing us in accomplishing this task were Meg Hinman, President; Phil Mangano, Vice-president; Linda Robinson, Secretary; Mary-jo Benfante, Treasurer, and Carm Lachiusa, Social Chairman. Their careful planning concluded the year with our memorable Junior Prom "Brigadoon."

Finally, our long-awaited senior year arrived bringing to a climax our five years at East High School. With Joe Mannara, President; Phil Banks, Vice-president; Carm Lachiusa, Secretary; Jim Elving, Treasurer; and Judy Amico, Social Chairman, we saw the outcome of many planned events. The arrival of senior beanies, the senior play, The Male Animal, senior banquet, the senior ball held at the Towne House and finally our graduation made us realize our accomplishments and recall the pleasant memories since we first entered East High. More important, however, we as seniors understand that the knowledge and awareness gained throughout our five years will help us in adjusting to an atmosphere with still longer hallways, stranger faces and greater opportunities in the world which awaits us.

SCHOOL WORK GRADUATES

The School Work Program is comparatively new to high schools. Here at East High, it involves 175 students each progressing according to their own ability. With this in mind, the program emphasizes not only the academic but the vocational aspects of education.

Miss Waterman, the head of the program, and nine teachers work to coordinate these two interrelated phases of the School Work Program. This three year program also offers work experience to the students in their third year. It is a requirement of the program to receive satisfactory evaluation on the job as well as in school.

Hopefully, this opportunity does and will continue to influence students in recognizing the many and varied responsibilities of individual effort in life beyond high school.

The Male Animal

On March 4th, East High was provided with a chance to attend this year's senior production, The Male Animal, written by James Thurber. While the audience seated themselves prior to the first act, East High's own band provided selections from the current Broadway musical, Man from La Mancha, and during intermission they entertained all with music from Herb Alpert's many creations. The theme of the senior play concerned a college professor who became involved in a censorship controversy brought about by the reading of a letter written by Vanzetti of the Sacco-Vanzetti fame. The play dealt with the many complications which arose in both the professor's home life and in his teaching career because of the controversy over the letter. The third act culminated in the actual reading of the "communistic" Vanzetti letter and a settling of the censorship controversy and anti-Communist feelings.

The Male Animal, an excellent choice for high school dramatization, was well received by students and well performed by members of the senior class. It hopefully will be remembered as one of the most successful senior plays produced in the history of all senior plays at East High.
